

WASHINGTON IS THE CITY NAMED

Peace Negotiations Will Be Held In United States Instead Of The Hague.

CAN RUSSIA PAY SUMS DEMANDED?

Enormous Amount of Money Is Now Being Paid Out By The Czar's Ministers For Their Present Foreign Loans.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Washington, June 15.—Washington has been selected for the place for holding the peace conference between Russia and Japan. The President has issued the following statement: "When the two governments (Russia and Japan) were unable to agree on either Chefoo or Paris, the President suggested The Hague, but both governments have now requested that Washington be chosen as the place of meeting of the plenipotentiaries and the President has accordingly formally notified both governments that Washington will be selected."

Following the President's announcement, Secretary Loeb said: "If, after the organization of the plenipotentiaries in Washington, it is found too hot here, the meeting can be adjourned to some summer resort in the north." Newport and Manchester by the sea have been suggested.

St. Petersburg, June 15.—Russia's capacity to pay an indemnity to Japan is analyzed by Prof. Migulin of Kharkoff university, a leading writer on political economy. He points out that Russia is in an extreme degree a poor country. The last 5 per cent. internal loan was realized with great difficulty, and the savings banks and private bankers together were scarcely able to help the finance minister to secure the issue.

The money raised by this loan remained to a large extent in this country, and flowed back into the nation's working capital. A large war tribute, to be taken absolutely, of the country, would provoke a momentary crisis.

What would Russia's position be if she went into the foreign markets to borrow? It is scarcely likely France would help find the one or two milliard of rubles in order, as many Frenchmen believe, to enable Japan to take Indo-China away from France.

Pays Millions in Interest.
It is stated that by paying an exceedingly high interest rate Russia could obtain the money. Prof. Migulin concedes she could get the money for a productive object, but there is no such future recompense in a war contribution. Russia would have to pay 75,000,000 or 150,000,000 rubles ($37,500,000 or $75,000,000). Interest yearly according to the rate for one or two milliard of rubles. She already has to pay 200,000,000 rubles ($100,000,000) interest yearly on foreign loans, and she cannot do so without having recourse to constant foreign borrowings. Where, then, could an additional $50,000,000 annually be found?

The attempt to meet a large tribute would mean national bankruptcy, which would be a bar to normal military expenditure and the construction of a new fleet, etc. All revenue would be swallowed up by loans raised abroad.

So prohibitive are the conditions for meeting another great debt abroad that Prof. Migulin urges that the payment of an indemnity be refused.

ROYAL WEDDING IN WINDSOR CHAPEL
English Princess Weds Swedish Prince Amid Much Eclat This Morning.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Windsor, Eng., June 15.—Princess Margaret of Connaught, a niece of King Edward, was married today to Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, a son of the Swedish Crown Prince. The ceremony was performed in St. George's chapel, in the grounds of Windsor Castle, the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Bishop of Oxford and several other ecclesiastics, officiating. The streets and houses of Windsor are beautiful with flags and flowers. The chapel was filled with royal and distinguished guests, including a diplomatic corps. Members of the British and Swedish royal families occupied the front seats of the chapel. The brief service of the church of England was used. Following the ceremony the party drove to Windsor Castle in the state carriage escorted by the life guards. A reception was held in the state department, after which the wedding dinner was served. The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon in Ireland and later go to Sweden.

AN ARCTIC SOJOURN FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Ship with Patients Left for Far North Today—Air Will Eliminate Bacilli From System.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Halifax, N. S., June 15.—A novel project in which physicians throughout the world are interested received an enthusiastic farewell when the steamer Havana sailed from this city today for a cruise along the shore of Baffin's land and central Greenland, with Dr. Frederick Sohon, of Washington, in charge. Dr. Sohon has an idea of a radical application of the out door treatment for consumptives, growing out of his own experience. He is backed by a number of business men of Washington, D. C. Dr. Sohon was with Lieut. Peary on his last two polar expeditions and believes that a sojourn in the arctic regions will cure consumption. He was suffering from the disease when he made his first trip and found that his long sojourn in the Greenland florid eliminated the bacilli from his system. Recently he wrote an exhaustive paper on the subject which aroused wide interest in the medical world, and as a result a number of men interesting in ridding out the white plague has resolved to test Dr. Sohon's plan. The Havana will anchor in various sheltered bays for the diversion and benefit of the patient's aboard and return to Halifax late in September. The number of patients is limited and the menu will be that of a first class hospital.

A continuance to June 26 of the trial of the perjury case of former Lieutenant Governor John A. Lee of Missouri was granted by Judge Davis at Jefferson City.

STATE REPORT ON EQUITABLE TO BE PUBLISHED TODAY

Will Doubtless Hit Hyde, Alexander and Their Associates Severely—"Dummy" Directors and Securities.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, June 15.—The greatest anxiety on the part of those directly interested in the management of the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and on the part of the general public as well, is manifested in the report of State Superintendent of Insurance Francis Hendricks, to be published sometime today, covering his examination into the conditions of the Equitable which have caused the scandal abroad before the community for the past four months. It is impossible to predict positively what the report will say, but an intimate associate of Mr. Hendricks, who has been with him constantly during the investigation for the saying that the report will deal largely with the so-called "dummy" directors of the Equitable who sit and vote on allotments of Hyde stock. It is also stated that the report will show that the securities of the company are all right, and that the mortgage loans are safe and sound in every particular. Supt. Hendricks, however, has been paying special attention to the real estate owned by the society and the values attached to various properties and will recommend radical reductions in many instances. Extravagance and laxity in several of the departments will also be alleged. It is said that the only thing those who are on the rack fear as a result of the Hendricks report is the syndicate feature and the general belief is that Hyde, Alexander and their associates in the underwritings will be hit hard.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, June 15.—A meeting of all the companies writing tornado insurance in the west was held here today in the assembly room of the Chicago Underwriters' Association to draft a uniform tornado policy. A movement is afoot to arrange a policy which will be uniform all over the country instead of varying forms in the East and West as now. It is understood that at today's meeting the commission question was taboed, both union and non-union companies co-operating in the movement. It is also understood that a meeting similar to the one called here today will soon be called by Eastern companies.

ALL EUROPE IS WAITING MOVES

Germany Prepares Its Frontier For War... France Follows Suit Promptly.

CZAR APPEALED TO IMMEDIATELY

As Ally Of France It Must Exert Its Influence To Curb The Growing Power Of William Of Germany.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Paris, June 15.—The question of peace negotiations is complicated with certain features of what is easily described as "the European situation," which almost overshadow it in general importance. Peace may come, but it will be negotiated with considerable unwillingness on the part of both belligerents, who are influenced in accepting President Roosevelt's invitation at the present moment by considerations extraneous from the far eastern situation.

It is necessary to speak with some reserve in dealing with critical problems which are putting the severest test upon diplomacy that it ever has been called upon to meet. Certain bald facts may be stated without equivocation. When M. Delcasse resigned the portfolio of the foreign office, Germany and France were on the verge of war. M. Delcasse thought Germany was "bluffing." Prime Minister Rouvier, remembering 1870, believed otherwise.

First Steps Toward War.
Germany had been strengthening her garrisons near the French frontier. France responded with a similar move. The Kaiser, ignoring his own provocation, notified France that if she did not cease this military movement Germany would consider it as an unfriendly act. This, of course, was equivalent to an ultimatum, and Premier Rouvier sent a conciliatory reply.

Within a few hours after Delcasse's retirement Premier Rouvier made certain representations to Russia which had a far greater influence upon the czar's present course than even President Roosevelt's letter. M. Delcasse had done everything in his power to support Russian policy and to uphold the alliance and had therefore refrained from pressing advice, peaceful or otherwise, upon the czar's government.

Premier Appeals to Czar.
Premier Rouvier told Russia the vital interest of France required the czar to do something under the terms of the alliance for her protection against German aggression. It was imperative for Russia to restore her military strength on her western frontier and be prepared to take an active part in a campaign if France were attacked.

ribles. The plumes which were arranged across the crown and over the side of the brim were shaded and full-ly three-quarters of a yard in length, but nothing richer had been turned out by the milliners of Paris this season.

The skirt of the gown was shirred
for several rows deep about the hips, with large tucks running from the knees to the bottom of the skirt, each finished with a tiny ruffling of red lace and headed with a narrow band of elegant embroidery.

Very little could be seen of the bodice except the vest which seemed to be shirred, with heavy falls of red silk lace, with the slightest suggestion of a white figure running through it, arranged on either side. Over the bodice was worn a short jacket, loose-fitting, yet curving into the lines of the figure sufficiently to give it a semi-tailored effect. The bodice was bordered with embroidery to match that used on the skirt and this was fastened with the narrowest piping of black satin. The loose, short sleeves, reached only half way to the elbow and were slashed to show the sleeve of the bodice which was a series of lace ruffles from shoulder to wrist.

The pleasure of wearing costly Panama hats will not be left entirely to the enjoyment of mere man this year; several models have appeared in smart Paris shapes, only the straw has been bleached in most instances until it is almost pure white. It is robbed of its masculine appearance, too, by the addition of a border of narrow black velvet on both the inner and outer edges of the brim, which is then twisted and dented into the smart shapes of the season and trimmed with garlands of chiffon.
No trimming holds its own better than does the algaette, and it is as appropriate from expensive designs as for the any priced pill-box. For the sake of variety, however, it is turned in every direction except the perfectly upright one, but put it anyway and it is chic.

UPPER CLASSES ARE HAMPERED

Immigration Officials Assert That Coolies Have No Trouble in Procuring Certificates Entitling Them to Enter the United States.

Washington, June 15.—President Roosevelt is manifesting a deep interest in the statements made to him by a delegation of the American Asiatic association concerning the difficulties which hitherto have been experienced by Chinese merchants, students, travelers and literary men in gaining admission to this country.

The complaints of the Chinese government about the alleged humiliation to which members of these classes of Chinese are subjected upon their arrival in the United States, together with the threats of the commercial guides of China to retaliate by boycotting American made goods, have aroused the business men of this country to protest against what they have regarded as unreasonable discrimination of the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws.

President Urges Discretion.
In a letter to Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor the president directs him to see that the immigration officers exercise discretion in the enforcement of the exclusion law, to the end that the relations of this government with China may continue to be cordial.

It is pointed out that great difficulty is experienced by the immigration officials in executing the law, because of the many bogus certificates which are presented by Chinese. It is a well understood fact that for a consideration a Chinese coolie may procure in China a certificate that he is a merchant or a traveler or a member of another of the exempt class. On its face the certificate entitles him to admission to the United States. So many frauds have been discovered in the matter of these certificates that the immigration officials examine all of them most carefully.

Metcalf Favors Supervision.

The fact accounts for the trouble experienced by genuine merchants and travelers when they arrive at United States ports. Thus far no feasible plan has been worked out to remedy the trouble of which the Chinese complain. Secretary Metcalf is in favor of congressional legislation on the subject, providing for a rigid supervision of the issuance of certificates in China, the idea being to hold absolutely responsible for the accuracy of the statements contained in the certificates the officials who issue them.

Federation Will Protest.

Scranton, Pa., June 15.—At the third day's session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor discussion arose relative to an alleged attempt being made to nullify the Chinese exclusion law. President Gompers, Vice President, O'Connell and Secretary Morrison were appointed a committee to wait upon President Roosevelt to present to him the subject and others affecting the interests of labor.

A New Terror.

Someone has lately discovered a new terror in the golf voice, necessitating a denouncement of golf for ladies. Unable to repress their natural propensity; even when separated by a considerable distance on the links, the fair golfers are accused of creating this new terror—a golf voice, loud, of course, and once acquired said to be incapable of control.

Success of Patent Medicines.

A London physician suggested to his colleagues that the success of many of the secret remedies advertised in the press lay in this: That they attempt to relieve the minor ailments of mankind, to which the profession pays too little attention.

Threshing in India.

In India threshing is still done by hand or by bullocks treading on the grain, and the winnowing also is done by hand.

Beach's Hand Soap is the best mechanics' soap.

cost you to have them made. The prices range from $1.25 to $5.

If you are a good judge of business conditions you can sit on your porch at home and pick out the "busiest store" in town today. It's merely a matter of picking out the best store advertisement in the paper today—and the plan never fails.

GOOD BANKING.

The Banker's Magazine contains some interesting statistics on bank conditions, showing that in some respects the banks in this country are more conservative than the banks of England.

In the latter country the percentage between bank capital and loans is only 14 per cent and a fraction, while in this country outside of New York city, the percentage is 21. The showing made by the National banks of New York city, in a recent report, was 22 per cent. This is within three per cent of what the law provides.

A National bank with a capital of $100,000, is considered safe when the loans do not exceed $400,000. The surplus is of course considered as additional capital.

The monetary conditions of the country were never better than they are today, and there is an abundance of money for all legitimate demands. While bank failures are recorded every week the general public is protected and there is no uneasiness.

The banks of New York are a great power in the financial world, and their loyalty to each other at times of emergency, contribute largely to the financial stability of the nation. The question is being asked, just now, in a good many quarters, why Thomas J. Ryan and his banking associates, recently paid between three and four million dollars for 501 shares of "Equitable life stock" which was worth as a dividend producer at 7 per cent only $50,000.

This block of stock of course represents a majority, but the charter of the company provides that the dividends shall not exceed 7 per cent. It is true that profits may be absorbed in salaries, but Mr. Ryan is not on the salary list.

That gentleman places his action on the high moral ground of "promoting and protecting the interests of policy holders and all concerned in life insurance."

The Wall Street Journal sizes up the situation, and after giving a number of reasons for Mr. Ryan's action, decides that the most plausible explanation was his desire to contribute to the stability of banking and financial institutions, in which he is largely interested. This is doubtless true, for it is in keeping with the policy long pursued by Wall street financiers. The Journal says:

"The Equitable scandal had reached an acute state. It had become a grave menace to financial interests. It interfered with the carrying out of many legitimate financial undertakings. The fate of the Equitable involved to some degree the prosperity of a number of prominent banks and trust companies in which the Equitable is largely interested. It also involved to no small extent the business of other life insurance companies. The settlement of the controversy by Mr. Ryan not only removes these perils, but it also serves to bring the Equitable into closer relations with the Mutual Life Insurance Co., with which some of Mr. Ryan's interests—notably the Morton Trust Co.—are affiliated, and has thus strengthened the insurance and banking situation. We could imagine that such a result as this might be well worth the sum paid for the Hyde stock. Yet such a business motive as this would be entirely legitimate and would not necessarily be in antagonism to the interest of the Equitable policyholders and the interest of the public at large.

If there has been any other motive that one absolutely legitimate in every respect, and one that squares with good faith and business honor, then the Equitable scandal, instead of having been removed as a menace to the financial situation, will have become a monumental catastrophe.

A GREAT HONOR.

The selection of President Roosevelt as the arbitrator of peace between Russia and Japan, is a great honor to the American nation. It indicates friendly and disinterested relations, and speaks well for the republic.

The appointments of plenipotentiaries on the part of Russia evidences the fact that peace is not only desired, but that the nation is ready to make the necessary sacrifice to secure it.

Japan, of course, is more independent, and yet this nation, flushed with victory, has no desire to prolong the war. Just what terms she may propose is difficult to determine, but it is safe to say that they will not be unreasonable.

The lapse of a decade has wrought wonderful changes. Ten years ago America was lightly regarded as a world's power, but when the guns from Dewey's fleet woke up the old harbor at Manila, the echo was heard around the world, and the little navy brought the nation to the front.

The capitol at Washington is now the center of interest, where grave and important international questions are considered. It was perfectly natural for both Russia and Japan to turn to America when the climax was reached, and the plan outlined for settlement is so fair and impartial that it commands the respect of all nations.

The question of supremacy is an important question because it carries with it grave responsibilities. The position which America occupies today is the result of more than diplomacy. The nation enjoys the reputation of being a good fighting nation, and while it may never again be called upon to defend the enviable position enjoyed, it is well to be prepared for any emergency.

The President realizes the importance of this fact, and therefore urges the strengthening of the navy, as well as an early completion of the Panama canal.

Under the new alignment of nations, the Pacific will be the future scene of action, and if the United States is to maintain supremacy here, navy must be strong in Eastern waters.

The best assurance of peace is a thorough preparation for emergencies. This is the President's policy, and it is sound, in spite of all that croakers may say to the contrary.

With three carloads of books at Madison, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company ought to be able to put up a good defense, in the cases now pending. As the investigation proceeds it will be found that more politics than business is mixed up with the deal. Railroad companies enjoy the reputation of being honest.

Judge Brewer, associate justice of the Supreme court, has made himself popular with the ladies by suggesting that a woman may some day occupy the chair of the chief executive at the White House. This was the word of encouragement offered by the judge to the graduating class of Vassar college.

The Business Woman's Magazine, published at Denver, Colo., scores the President for not recognizing the women's clubs while on his recent visit to that city. It will be remembered that the President's party lodged Omaha, on the same trip to get away from a woman. He was not out on a society expedition.

The people of the state may rest secure for another six months at least. The watchful eye of the guard will not be removed before the senate convenes, and the interests of "God's patient poor" will be conserved with old time loyalty.

Whatever may have influenced a majority of the council in refusing to rescind the Sunday night theatre ordinance, it is a good thing for the town. The step between personal liberty and license is extremely narrow and law is frequently necessary to establish the dividing line.

The senate did a wise thing in killing the mortgage tax bill. The state needs the opportunity to invest its own money, and if the bill had become a law, money from other states would have taken the place of home funds. The rates of interest can't be changed by mortgage taxation.

Fifty-five bad women are locked up in the Ohio penitentiary. Cassey Chadwick set a rapid pace for her sex, and she seems to have a good many disciples in the Buckeye State.

The $5,000 political steal is causing some uneasiness at Madison, and some of the faithful are inclined to balk.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Explorer Nansen didn't quite make the north pole, but his dash for it may possibly land him in the presidency of the Norwegian republic.

Marquette Eagle-Star: The Portland exhibition is said to be a hummer. We regret exceedingly that Oregon is so far from Marquette.

Madison Democrat: Somebody estimates the number of new dentists who will enter the field this year at 3,000. Gee! What a pull they'll have.

Madison Journal: When a man gets old enough to suppose that the public cares to read what he thinks (the doors of the imbeciles' home gives a suggestive creak).

Menasha Record: We notice in an exchange, some talk about the good deeds that go unrecorded. But if all the good deeds were recorded there would be neither space nor time to record the bad deeds.

Appleton Post: Every time Uncle Isaac Stephenson goes down to Madison some of the newspapers start the rumor that he is "after the senatorship." True enough, perhaps, but a good way after it.

Madison Democrat: The London

Standard says John Hay is "one of the two real American statesmen." There are several Wisconsin legislators who think they know the other fellow.

Rockford Register-Gazette: King Oscar has filed a formal protest with the United States against the secession of Norway. Oscar knows in advance that he has the support of Seventh street.

Whitewater Register: If the legislature should pass an omnibus repealing act, covering every bill which has passed both houses this winter, the whole state could well afford to pay the shot and call it square.

Appleton Crescent: When some of the modern so-called reformers pull for the shore that never gives up its captives, the public that they led in to blunders and steel traps will long remember them for the mischief they did.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Richard K. Fox, the proprietor of the Police Gazette, is suing for divorce. And considering the character of the paper which he runs the only surprising thing about it is the claim that during the most of their twenty-years of married life the couple have lived "quite happily" together.

Montreal Witness: How a monarch should behave when good-naturedly dismissed by his subjects is a novel question for which we can remember no precedent out of the nursery. King Oscar is the most good-natured of men. There is not a child in Stockholm but knows that. But who would not be vexed if he happened to be king of two countries, and one country dismissed him and the other country did not strenuously object.

Pleasanton, (Kan.) Herald: The cock-eyed Bohemian of Centerville is a dead duck in the pond. By his vote against woman suffrage he placed his wife and mother below the level of a dago or a Hottentot. But perhaps he never had a mother—"just grew up," like Topsy. Poor, weak bigot! Lost to every impulse for elevating humanity. His acts will condemn and eternally damn him, and he will be hissed by generations yet unborn.

Chicago Chronicle: Scandals like that which has arisen over the government cotton crop report, justify doubts as to the advisability of government crop reports of any kind. Those reports naturally effect speculative prices and speculators who lose money are naturally disposed to question the impartiality of the government statisticians. If the gathering of these statistics were left to private enterprise the speculators would have no cause of complaint. They could make up their own figures and draw their own conclusions.

New York Sun: It takes the insurance people to keep up with the march of events. Within a few months two companies have taken up the insurance not only of automobiles but of the owners and drivers. The machine is insured against fire and other damage, the owner is secured against damage suits caused through the actions of his auto, civil suits are defended for him and all penalties except actual imprisonment assumed by the insurers. If a lamp or other part of the outfit is stolen it is replaced by the company and if the driver is taken ill or injured in an accident he gets a weekly allowance, with a substantial sum for his heirs if death ensues. If there is any contingency uncovered the companies would like to know of it.

Milwaukee Free Press: There is a mayor at Oconto who got a rake-off of $40 on a purchase of fire hose, and turned into the city treasury; and the local papers are bragging about it. When it comes to being honest we have here in Milwaukee a large number of men who wouldn't take a rake-off anyhow. We have men who have been known to vote for ordinances and for permits for awnings, and to give building permits, and to let contracts, and to give orders for purchase of hose, and lots of other things who never took a cent for it. And we have the other kind. Of course nobody in Milwaukee feels just like bragging much about our mayor. We do not know whether he ever bought any hose, but if he did, and if he got a rake-off, intending to put it into the city treasury, we will wager a large money that he put it there. He wouldn't change his mind about a thing like that.

Mrs. D. Ryan and daughter Normie were in Watertown today, attending the closing of the year exercises at Sacred Heart college, at which institution her son Francis is a student. City Clerk Foster of Beloit was in the city last evening with his automobile and a party of ladies. Another Line City machine also visited the city.

Dr. T. P. McKey, a former resident of Janesville, who has made his home in California for several years, sails for Europe on the seventeenth and expects to make his home in London. DOUBLE WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED

TWO JANESVILLE LADIES WEDDED YESTERDAY IN CHICAGO.

RECEPTION HELD LAST NIGHT

Mrs. F. J. Webster Marries Maurice N. Wheeler and Sylvia McFarlane Weds John Thomas.

There was solemnized in Chicago yesterday at ten-thirty at the Tabernacle Baptist church a double wedding in which two Janesville sisters, Miss Sylvia McFarlane and Mrs. F. J. Webster, were united in marriage to John Thomas and Mr. Maurice N. Wheeler. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Gristweck, a friend of the brides' family. The wedding party arrived in Chicago at seven-thirty yesterday morning accompanied by a party of friends. They went immediately to the Tabernacle church where the wedding service was read, and then to a friend's home where a delightful collation was spread at twelve o'clock. They returned to Janesville, leaving Chicago on the five o'clock train and arriving here at seven-thirty. They were met at the depot by a large party of friends and relatives who accompanied them to the residence of the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McFarlane, 160 South Main street, where the wedding reception was held.

Banquet Served
Here a sumptuous dinner was in waiting which was enjoyed by all. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion and a number of valuable and handsome presents were waiting the happy couple on their return. Mr. McFarlane is a Scotchman by birth but has long made this country his home. For many years he resided at Ft. Atkinson, but later moved to Janesville, where he has since made his home. Mrs. McFarlane is an American by birth and to this couple were born eight children. Their home last evening was the scene of a gay party at this, the double wedding of two of their children.

The Brides
Mrs. F. J. Webster who was married to Mr. Maurice N. Wheeler is the oldest of the family. She was married when but twenty to Mr. Webster, and moved to Albany, Wisconsin, where she made her home until the death of her husband four years ago, since which time she has made her home in Janesville with her parents. She was richly gowned last evening in a blue cologne over a blue silk and wore no jewelry except a trio of stick pins that contained settings which were picked up on the banks of the river Jordan in Jerusalem. Mr. Maurice Wheeler, the groom, is the only son of Mr. William Wheeler, who is one of the pioneers of the county, coming from Ohio to Wisconsin before the civil war. Mr. Maurice Wheeler owns and operates a large stock farm north of Beloit. He has served as town clerk and is now school clerk. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler left for the new home this morning, taking with them the heartiest congratulations of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas
Mrs. Thomas was the seventh child of Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane. She spent her childhood on her father's farm near Ft. Atkinson, later attending the Whitewater High School. Since coming to Janesville she has devoted much of her time to music, in which she has become exceedingly proficient. The bride was gowned in a beautiful costume of ashes of roses silk. She wore no jewelry except a watch and chain, the gift of the groom. The groom, Mr. John Thomas, is the son of a prominent farmer near Rockford. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will make their home with the bride's parents until the completion of their new home, which they expect to occupy about August first.

COMMENCE SETTING TOBACCO PLANTS

Leaf Growers Are Well Pleased with the Warm Spell That Makes Early Planting Possible.

No class of men are better pleased with the present warm spell than the tobacco growers. S. B. Heddles commenced setting the plants on his thirty-eight acres yesterday and it is probable that similar work has been started by many others. "The young plants are looking fine," said Mr. Heddles this morning, "and contrary to the reported scarcity, they are plentiful. The land is also in very good condition. Considerable setting was done in the north during the last few days of the last week and the work was renewed in earnest the first part of this week. From present appearances the crop will be planted in good season and this early planting, barring untoward climatic conditions later on, means light colors and a good binder leaf."

HORSE THIEVES GET BUSY IN COUNTY

Animal Belonging to C. B. Marefield of Milton Junction Stolen From Barn Tuesday Night.

Horse thieves are again at work in the county. Tuesday night an animal was taken from the barn of C. B. Marefield in Milton Junction and a buggy from the neighboring premises of R. C. Maxwell. The theft was discovered at daylight yesterday morning and word was sent to the county authorities here last evening. Word was sent to the various towns and settlements but it is probable that the thieves and their booty are safe from pursuit by this time.

Chief Scheibel Says Beloit Don't Pay Any Attention To Her Big Sister Janesville.

"That so? Janesville going to celebrate the Fourth of July?" said Chief of Police Scheibel of Beloit this morning. "I heard you were going to have a prize-fight here tonight, but hadn't been told about the Fourth. At least, if I was told, I didn't listen. We don't pay much attention to Janesville, you know. Hardly ever think of it except as the county seat where we send portions of the population we don't want. What's that? Our track is no good for automobile racing? Evidently not. You bet it's got a slant on the corners. Those Janesville auto drivers don't know what they're talking about. Best half-mile track in Wisconsin."

BOYS WERE SEEN AND IT IS BEST THEY PROVE HONEST

Two Young Men Who Found a Pocketbook Want to Hand it to the Police.

This morning a lady from the country drove into the city and hitched her buggy near the Grubb flats. In some way she lost her pocketbook, a hand-bag, out of the buggy. Two young boys were seen to have it in their possession and as a word of warning to them City Marshal Comstock sends them the following warning: "You may say that the two boys seen with a pocketbook which they picked up in front of Grubb flats must bring the pocketbook to the city marshal's office or they will be arrested. They were seen and are known and their conversation was heard by a reliable witness. If they wish to avoid trouble they must return the property at once." This warning applies to parents as well as the boys and it would be well for the culprits to heed the notice.

THIRTY-NINE WILL RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

The Exercises This Evening Will Comprise the Commencement Program Proper.

During the commencement exercises this evening thirty-nine young women and men will receive diplomas, instruments which show that they have completed a course of courses of study in the high school. It marks for some a turning point in their lives, for others a step toward an end for which they are striving. For some it means the end of their school education, for others it is but the completion of their preparation for further research and study. Some when the exercises are over and they have recovered from the excitement and strain will immediately commence work, others will search for employment, some will remain at home and still others will spend the summer months in resting or getting ready for entering college or university. For some the work in the high school was done with a purpose of building a foundation for higher educational study, while others completed courses with which they will be prepared to enter life. The largest number will receive diplomas in the English course, fourteen having completed the studies which comprise this line. Nearly an equal number will receive sheepskins in the General Science course, there being twelve in this class. ASKS $50,000 FOR INJURIES

John H. Parker of Beloit, Commences Big Damage Action Against Fairbanks-Morse Co.

John H. Parker of Beloit has started in circuit court a $50,000 damage suit against the Fairbanks-Morse Co. of Beloit for personal injuries sustained in a fall from a scaffolding at that concern's plant some months ago. Pethers, Jeffris, Monar & Newhouse will represent the plaintiff in the suit.

ADVERTISING SCHEMES

The demoralized condition of the trading stamp business just now has caused a good many Janesville merchants to ask themselves the question, "Where are we at and whither are we drifting?" It is a timely question and worthy of careful consideration.

The merchants find that they have been paying out in cold cash all the way from $100 to $1,000 a year for premiums to induce trade. Many of them have long been weary of the business and are glad of some reasonable excuse to give it up. The failure of the stamp companies comes to them as a great relief.

Another scheme for extorting money out of the merchants and which in many cases amounts to blackmail, is the program, "cook-book" and various other society devices for the benefit of churches and other enterprises.

The merchant knows that for advertising purposes these schemes are absolutely worthless, yet he fears a boycott if he declines to patronize.

Aside from these is the outside advertiser, who comes along with some new device which is equally worthless. Between the trading stamp, the blackmail and the outside fakir, the merchant is besieged until life becomes a burden and he seeks in vain for relief.

Other cities have had the same experience and many of them have finally taken the bull by the horns by organizing a protective association and signing articles of agreement to abandon all outside advertising schemes. This enables them to turn down society solicitors gracefully and places them on the same level so far as premiums are concerned.

The merchants of Janesville are ripe for this kind of an organization, and a movement is now on foot to give them relief. It should be heartily endorsed by every business man in the city.

Five Census Enumerators Will Begin Making Rounds in the City on Tuesday Next.

On Tuesday morning, June 20, the work of securing the Janesville statistics for the decennial census of the state of Wisconsin, will be commenced. City Clerk A. E. Badger has named the following to collect the information in the various districts of the city: 1st ward, F. J. Holt; 2d ward, F. O. Hart; 3d ward, C. F. Lester; 4th ward, Charles E. Curtis; 5th ward, George T. Croft. These men will have until August 1 to complete their work and if the totals do not greatly exceed 14,000 citizens will be deeply disappointed. The total five years ago when the U. S. census was taken was 12,185.

Everything is to be taken as it was on June 1 and new arrivals since that time will not be allowed to swell the totals. In addition to securing names very personal questions regarding age, color, single or double blessedness or the possible retirement from that state, occupation or trade of each person 14 years old or over, the ownership of property and possible mortgages outstanding, will be put.

The state takes this census on the years ending with the figure 5, while the United States does so on the years ending with a cipher. The information to be gathered for Wisconsin this year will be more complete than any heretofore taken. In addition to the particulars above outlined, the blanks provide for data regarding agriculture, dairying, manufacturing, mining, the militia, soldiers and sailors and other information of a similar nature. The answers to these inquiries should be made as complete and accurate as possible, in order to determine the progress made since the last census of the state, county, city, village, or town in population and industrial pursuits.

The importance of this work should be so evident to every one that they will cheerfully assist and co-operate with enumerators in making the returns accurate and complete.

A Hanlon Boom.

Young Corbett's Vanquisher In Line For Nelson and Britt.

The decisive defeat of Young Corbett by Eddie Hanlon, the rising young featherweight, has given the latter's stock a big boom.

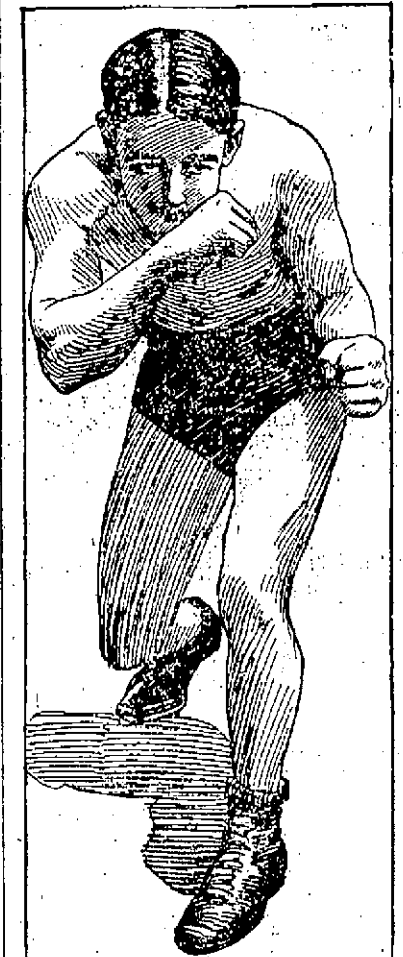

Many experts believe that Hanlon is the lad who will defeat Battling Nelson and Jimmy Britt. Although he is lighter than either Nelson or Britt, Hanlon has a remarkably heavy punch and endurance to spare.

Eddie Hanlon fought Young Corbett to a standstill during the last few rounds of their twenty round contest in San Francisco and got around earned decision from Referee Homan at the end of the twentieth round.

The fight was an exciting one from start to finish. During the first part of the contest Hanlon had a slight advantage, but no harm was done to either man until the eleventh round. Then Hanlon rushed Corbett to the ropes, but the Denver man stalled Hanlon off and blocked a number of stomach punches. Corbett got to the center of the ring and in a mixup put left and right swings on Hanlon's jaw.

Hanlon went to his knees and took the count of nine. He came up fighting, and, in spite of Corbett's strenuous efforts to put him out, he finished the round strong. For the next four rounds Corbett went at his man and in the thirteenth had Hanlon very tired. Hanlon braced up in the fourteenth and seemed to have a slight margin over Corbett. The sixteenth round was Corbett's. The eighteenth was about even, although Corbett had a shade the better of it at the end. The nineteenth and twentieth were all Hanlon's. All during the nineteenth he stood up close to Corbett, pounding away at the Denver boy's stomach. Corbett was tired and could not hit back.

They stood breast to breast, each with his head to the other's shoulder, and slugged for all that was in them. Hanlon was the stronger and forced Corbett around the ring, landing frequently on the stomach. He fought Corbett against the ropes and had him at his mercy. Corbett came very near going off the platform, but staggered back to the center of the ring. The round closed with both men on their feet, with Corbett all but out.

Abe Attell does not concur in the general opinion that Battling Nelson would have tenderly tucked him away in another round or two during their recent scrap. Attell says: "I tried to knock him out, but he outweighed me too much. But he never had me on the outskirts of Slumber City. If Nelson thinks he has it on me, let him take me on for twenty rounds at 125 pounds; 3 o'clock, the weight he made for Young Corbett. I'll bet $1,000 on the result. He'll flit out then whether I'm only a six round fighter."

SPALDING SCORES A HIT.

Young American Violinist Praised by the Paris Critics.

Albert Spalding, the young American violinist who has been talked of a great deal on both sides of the Atlantic, made his professional debut recently in the Nouveau theater, Rue Blanche, Paris. He scored what the Parisian critics pronounce "a decided success in a most difficult and classical programme."

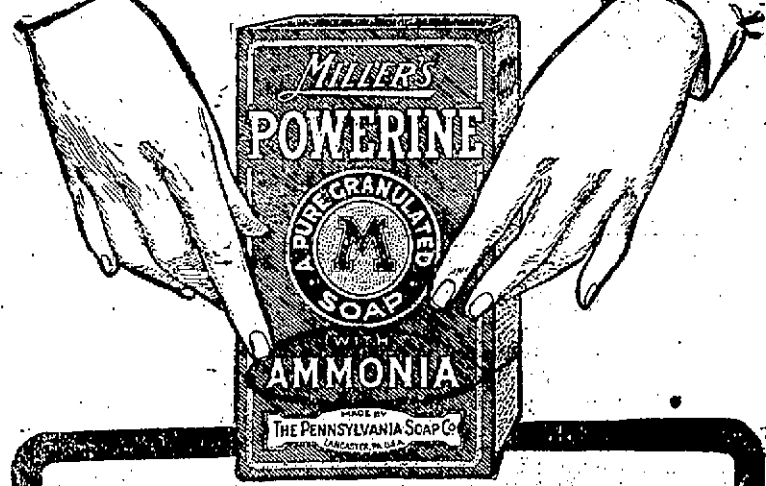

Mr. Spalding rendered Saint Saens' concerto, Bach's chaconne, Beethoven's Romance and Sarasate's Zigeunerweisen with great sentiment and perfection of technique.

Mr. Spalding, who is a son of J. W. Spalding of New York city, studied with Professor Lefort of the Paris conservatory.

At the age of fourteen Mr. Spalding was the winner of the title of professor in the well known Bologn Conservatory of Music.

Its quick action on dirt and grease makes it possible to accomplish much work in a very short time. Restores the original brightness to everything. You don't have to rub or scrub. Miller's Powerine, with ammonia, does the work. Large package 5c.

CHAPTER XVII.

MADAME RAYMOND.

John Lamm, confident that a conspiracy was to be found at the bottom of the North case, was reasonably sure already of two parties thereto—Marion Stackhouse and Richard Pettridge. Whether there was anybody else concerned he had not yet made up his mind. The plain yet puzzling charge of Thornton Stackhouse in the letter to the Missouri woman, who seemed to the detective to have been created for the express purpose of tantalizing him with the enigma of her existence, indicated that Stackhouse himself had reason to believe her the head and front of all offense.

Again and again John Lamm studied that letter, endeavoring to squeeze out of it the last drop of possible significance; but the writer had so well chosen his words, with the evident purpose of making them unintelligible to a third person, that the detective was suspicious of what seemed the logical deductions therefrom. One thing was certain. Stackhouse charged Marie Moissot (the "person unknown" of Mr. Lamm's notes) with having carried to successful issue, on the 15th of June, a conspiracy to ruin him, and Mr. Lamm believed himself fully possessed of the unfortunate events which had overwhelmed this man, during that day. The discovery of this unique charge of murder written in red on the wall of North's library, he did not forget was not the only misfortune. The extraordinary conduct of his wife was quite as serious to Stackhouse, not impossibly more so than this implied accusation. To be sure, these two conspicuous facts seemed to be part and parcel of one larger fact, and perhaps appeared to Mr. Stackhouse's mind as one thing; but the detective was altogether too cautious not to have seen that the letter might refer to either one of these calamities. The problem in John Lamm's mind, therefore, stood in this wise:

Q. Does Mr. Stackhouse hold Marie Moissot responsible for implicating him in the murder of his partner or in embittering his domestic relations?

Q. If the former were his belief, would he not have acquainted me with the fact?

And as Mr. Lamm could not help answering the latter question in the affirmative, he was still reasonably sure that there was no evidence in his possession of a third party to the great "conspiracy" which was so puzzling him.

When it seemed to be plain that his present duty was to center his efforts upon the two people whom he suspected—to investigate their doings thoroughly, to watch both of them with all possible vigilance.

To keep Marion Stackhouse under surveillance was a comparatively easy task. She had not left the confines of the North estate, except on the occasion of the funeral, since the discovery of her father's death; and for a full report of her conduct for the immediate present Lamm felt he could safely rely on the vigilance of Mollie and Mollie White. But the movements of Richard Pettridge were not so easily followed. Consequently, John Lamm did not dare to trust this apparently most important task to anybody but himself and those under his active supervision.

On the Wednesday when he received Thomas's confidence in the Stella North affair, Lamm doubled the safeguards and precautions previously taken to assure himself of the integrity of Richard Pettridge. Not that he ignored other possibilities of investigation. Into the past lives of Stackhouse and North and Marion he was already instituting the most careful inquiries; but Pettridge's career interested him still more. With that affable good fellowship which made it possible for him to make friends with all sorts and conditions of men, he in-

"I suffered terribly with heart disease. I have been treated by different physicians for my trouble without results. I went to a physician in Memphis, who claimed that he had dropped the heart. He put the X-ray on me, and in connection with his medicine he came near making a life of me. Some time before this a Mr. Young, of St. Louis, was in our town. He saw my condition, and recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure to me. I gave it little attention until my return from Memphis, when I concluded to try it. And am pleased to say three bottles cured me."

AGAIN AND AGAIN JOHN LAMM STUDIED THAT LETTER.

ried of waiting, and the arrival of this brief message the morning of the day after he had given these last instructions, came as a pleasant surprise:

"She is here."

With all speed the detective made his way towards the substantial brick building where Richard Pettridge was usually to be found during business hours "on any week-day of the year."

Waiting in the quiet corridor, Mr. Lamm found the place almost as deserted, this summer morning, as if it were a bank holiday. But the echo of a door closing on the flight above, and the sound of two voices, one of which was Pettridge's, in amiable conversation, soon demanded his close attention.

It was a woman's voice that spoke the only "good-by" that came unmistakably to the ears of the detective; and a woman's light step heard on the stairway gave him assurance that the mysterious Mme. Raymond was coming his way.

A slight built, willowy woman, this, thought Mr. Lamm, as he watched her pass near at hand, his own presence entirely unnoticed. Pretty, an olive complexion, a little too much "made up," large, lustrous eyes, black hair (her own undoubtedly), a very graceful figure. Altogether, as Mr. Lamm summed up the case, an attractive brunette on the sunny side of 30, with something of a foreign air about her. Assuredly a visitor to Boston, wherever born and bred.

The graceful figure, well set off by a coquettish bonnet, which, like the summer wrap, had a pleasant contrast of color in it, flitted through the streets. Followed by more than one admiring glance, the lady was followed also by Mr. Lamm, though not one of the many acquaintances, with whom the de-ective exchanged a bow and a pleasant word, would have suspected the fact.

Mme. Raymond, hailing a South End car, and taking a seat with dainty supervision of her skirts, looked at the shop windows past which her route took her, with languid curiosity. Mr. Lamm, two seats behind, did not seem to notice her. Mme. Raymond left the car at a shady crossing; and Mr. Lamm, having seen her on the footpath and well around the corner, swung off the car in his turn, and quite casually walked up the street which the lady had traversed just before.

Mr. Lamm was going by a modest-looking house, with a high doorstep, just as Mme. Raymond was ringing the bell. She was admitted in a moment, and Mr. Lamm still walked on, turning the corner and taking a meditative promenade down a dusty avenue for a little distance.

But the now invisible magnet still drew him to that quiet little street, and to the ninth house on the right in a distractingly regular row of highly-respectable looking dwellings. "A boarding house," commented Mr. Lamm, as he leisurely looked at the windows on his way up the steps. "No need of a sign to tell that fact."

In his suave inquiry regarding eligible lodgings, the careworn landlady who opened the door took an instant interest. She liked the man's face, as she confided an hour later to an intimate friend in the millinery line, who chanced to call.

"We have a very good room back, up one flight, sir; quite near the bathroom."

"Ah!" The caller seemed to be considering. "I'm a quiet man of business, you understand. No gay roysterers, no noisy lodgers, no piano thumping at midnight, suppose?"

"Dear me, no, sir," the landlady assured him. "Fact is, we're rather empty now. Only two clerks, very nice, steady young men, on the third floor, and a transient, a lady, who occupies the parlor bedroom, front, second story."

"She's not musical?"

"I think not, sir. She's not sung since she came here, to my knowledge, a week ago last Wednesday. I think it was—yes, I am sure, for the man was sent in to whitewash the walls that day, and that is how I came to remember it."

"Lady, a transient, you say. Stranger, then, of course?"
